Speaker Highlights...

Matt Martinez, Executive Director of DIAG USA Foundation, spoke to us on “The Future of Work”. Matt identified himself as a person with learning disabilities and addressed the importance of the continuance of vocational training in manual technologies. Matt promotes the understanding and application of the German Dual System of Vocational Education. Many Americans believe that within 50 years two-thirds of the work now done by humans will be completed by robots and computers. There are estimates that by 2020 five million jobs will be lost to automation.

As technology and mechanics take over the work force, humans will need to be trained to keep them operational. This involves not only initial training but a continuing education as technology improves itself from minute to minute. To be marketable in 2025, the experts defined six skill areas:

Technology and Computational Thinking
Caregiving
Social Intelligence and New Media Literacy
Lifelong Learning
Adaptability and Business Acumen
Freelance Work

If you would like more information from Matt on these issues, please contact him at mattmartinez99@yahoo.com
